

Notes on Scene 2

This crime scene illustrates the type of logic the students may face. The implication is that the student on the bicycle has something to do with the crime. But there is no evidence of this. In fact the DNA, footprints and bike tracks do not belong to either of the suspects. The way I have set up the powders for this scene, both of the suspects have powders found on them that were in the bottles in the room. This would implicate both the suspects. The students need to evaluate which evidence implicates which of the suspects and which of the evidence does not implicate anyone.
